The Formation of Awaiting Cape York

Underlying Principles of Awaiting

The Organisation

Role Statement

The Awaiting Cape York Health Council is an umbrella group for the twenty-two communities of the Awaiting Cape York Health Council. It is a unique organisation in Australia, as it brings together representatives of indigenous and non-indigenous communities to work in partnership to improve health outcomes for all people in Awaiting Cape York. The Council aims to achieve this by providing a forum for the development and implementation of health strategies that are culturally appropriate and responsive to the needs of the community. It is a voluntary body governed by a Board of Directors, which is elected by the member communities. The Council has a number of working groups, each focusing on a specific area of health and social development.

We are the leaders of our community.

Our community needs our support of parents and children.

I believe that kids in the community need a voice and a way to understand how the big world operates outside of our community.

The best possible process for young people.

The best possible process for young people.

Some ways

1. Help kids become aware of their problems, issues, and goals.

2. Help them make decisions without understanding how the big world operates outside of our community.

3. Help kids find a way to understand how the big world operates outside of our community.

4. Help kids change and better the lives of our community.
